AVERT TIE-UP OF WINNIPEG STREET CARS

Action Deferred on Employees' Strike Timed for Last Midnight

WORD FROM OTTAWA
FACILITATES TRUCE

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (CP).—Complete tie-up of Winnipeg's transportation system was averted tonight when employees of the Winnipeg Electric Company voted to defer action on a strike timed for midnight tonight. Belief that a board of conciliation had exceeded its powers in ordering a 15 per cent wage cut, effective August 1, and assurance that the men would be reimbursed for any deduction in today's pay cheque, left the way open for further negotiations.

CITIZENS RELIEVED
Announcement of a truce in the wage dispute that affected more than 800 employees of Winnipeg's street railway system brought a sigh of relief to troubled citizens. Decision to withhold strike action was reached at a last-minute conference between company heads, union officials and Mayor R. H. Webb.

Agreement to strike followed rejection of the company's proposal for a wage reduction and findings of a board of conciliation which ordered a fifteen per cent cut, retroactive to August 1.

Assurance from H. M. Ward, deputy Minister of Labor, at Ottawa, the order can be made retroactive only to August 15, brought about the truce and paved the way for further negotiations.

COMING FROM OTTAWA

No action will be taken by either side until after the arrival here tomorrow from Ottawa of W. S. Campbell, chief conciliation officer. Further efforts then will be made to reach an agreement. The dispute does not involve the light and gas distribution departments of the company. Wages for employees in these sections were fixed last April.

RADIO CAUSES INTENSE PAIN

Tortured Dairyman Finds the Remedy in Grounding Himself

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 31 (AP).—Scientists have started an investigation into the curious case of Martin Bodker, Bismillah dairyman who suffers intense pains from radio waves unless he grounds himself. Tacoma and Seattle specialists have declared they are baffled. Bodker, some years ago, began to suffer intense pain. Physicians could find nothing wrong with him, but the pains, much like rheumatism, persisted from time to time.

One day he put his hand on a water faucet while suffering pains, and they immediately vanished. When he took his hand off the faucet the pains returned. Bodker wrapped a cane with copper wire, bore a hole through the floor of his living-room, and "grounded" himself.

The case was brought to the attention of Lee A. Delaney, physician by one of Bodker's relatives living here, and Bodker was persuaded to go to that city.

VERNON, Aug. 31 (CP).—A trial court session, adjourned June last on a technicality with regard to expanding of the jury, will open here September 6.

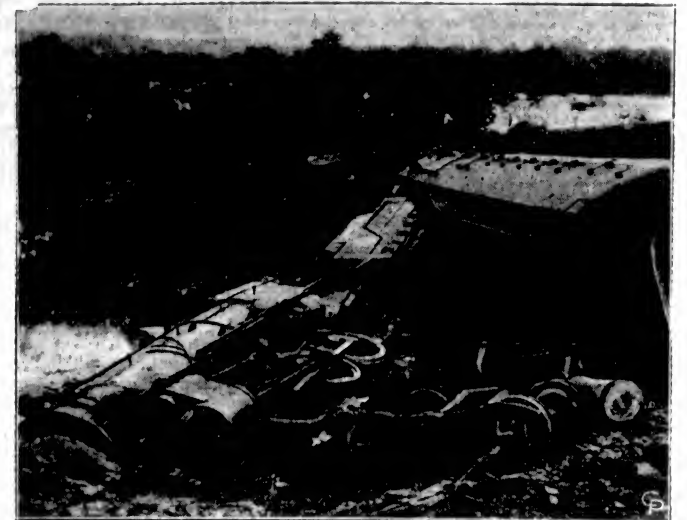

Federal Legislation For Markets Control Urged by Dr. Tolmie

Premier Says Enabling Dominion Laws Needed Before Province Can Act—Hon. Robert Weir Gives Address to Livestock Men

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—"My own view is that Dominion legislation will be most successful in the long run, to handle marketing problems on similar lines as we handled such matters as control of protection from contagious diseases," Premier S. F. Tolmie of British Columbia, a former Federal Minister of Agriculture, stated to a meeting of livestock men here in a discussion of agricultural marketing problems.

"Finding a market for agricultural products is the pressing problem today," the Premier commented. "We have tried co-operation, and have passed laws only to find them ultra vires, which makes it necessary in the next move along these lines, after careful consideration of all angles, that action must be taken by the Federal Government, either to bring in direct legislation, or enabling legislation permitting the provinces to pass such laws as will adequately meet the situation."

Crashes When Storm Destroys Bridge

THE locomotive of the Crescent Limited, crack Southern Railway train, which crashed through a bridge over the eastern branch of the Anacostia River, near Washington, is shown embedded in a mudbank while overturned Pullmans litter the permanent way. The engineer and fireman of the train were killed and thirteen passengers injured in the accident, which is said to have been due to a storm weakening the bridge.

SEAPORT MAY CLOSE EARLY

Grain Moving Eastward Instead of North Through Churchill

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (CP).—The Western farmer quietly accepted the announcement, today, his own prairie seaport will be closed for the season, within a few days, if he doesn't hurry some wheat to far North Churchill for export. But there was indication he wouldn't remain long under the challenge.

Near-empty bins in the Government-constructed 2,500,000-bushel elevator at the little port on Hudson Bay means only two more shipments of grain to world markets can be made this season unless the Prairies pour more grain into the port.

MORE EXPENSIVE ROUTE
It is a shorter haul for the Western Canadian shipper to send his export grain via Churchill, but right now it is more expensive. Excessively low lake rates have made it a better deal for exporters to ship via Port William and Montreal.

From Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, from a tourist group at the Paa returning from an inspection of Churchill's grain-handling facilities, and from scattered points in Saskatchewan and Alberta, came indications the port would not be closed early without a struggle.

WILL CONTINUE SUPPORT
"The Manitoba Government has done, and will continue to do, all it legitimately can to encourage shipment through Churchill," Premier Bracken declared.

Farmers were urged to rush grain to Churchill, and Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Hon. R. J. Manion, Federal Minister of Railways, were petitioned to impress upon producers the immediate need of this in the situation passed by tourists at The Paa.

"The present abnormal condition of rates should not be allowed to destroy the usefulness of this public utility," the resolution read.

WIN ON FOUR FRONTS

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 31 (AP).—Victories along four fronts in the Gran Chaco warfare against Bolivian forces were claimed today for Paraguayan troops in dispatches from the war area.

EPIDEMIC TAKES OTHER VICTIMS

SIX More Deaths Added to Toll of Sleeping Sickness at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP).—Sleeping sickness epidemic made a fresh start, today, by adding six victims to the death list. Of the fifty-three deaths attributed to the disease, thirty-four were in St. Louis County and nineteen in the city of St. Louis which, during the earlier part of the outbreak, had been singularly free from the malady.

Health officers found encouragement, however, in the lessening of the number of cases reported today. While forty-one cases were reported yesterday, only twenty-four were listed today. Of these, fifteen were in the city of St. Louis and nine in St. Louis County.

Canned Pilchards From Canada Get Added Preference

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31 (CP).—Due to a change in the British tariff on canned pilchards, this commodity from British Columbia will receive double the advantage on English markets that it formerly held, according to advice received here today.

While Empire canned pilchards enter the British market free of the new tariff order, effective September 3, places a duty of 10 shillings per hundredweight on non-Empire pilchards as against the former duty of 10 per cent ad valorem.

H. D. TWIGG IS LEAVING ARENA

Brilliant Debater in Provincial Affairs Retiring to Private Life

H. D. Twigg, former deputy speaker in the Legislature and one of the most able parliamentarians of his day, stated yesterday that he will not be a candidate at the November Provincial election. Mr. Twigg said he planned to return to private life, and will shortly enter business here, presently with a financial house. So far as politics are concerned, he is definitely out of the race.

Mr. Twigg was elected to the Provincial Legislature in 1924, and was one of the outstanding debaters of the Conservative Opposition of that day. On the assumption of the Conservative regime to power in 1928, Mr. Twigg was made deputy speaker, a post he filled ably until the dissolution of the Seventeenth Legislature, recently.

PLAYED LEADING PART
As chairman of some of the most important committees of the House, Mr. Twigg was a tower of strength to the Conservative side, and was acknowledged to be one of the most forceful speakers in the assembly. As a member for Victoria, he took a leading part in debates during the last five sessions, and was always effective in his public utterances.

His decision to abandon politics will be learned with regret by political friends and foes alike.

BREAK RING OF FORGERS

Indiana Police Arrest Three—Made Bonus Cheques on Own Presses

CROWN POINT, Ind., Aug. 31 (AP).—A cheque forgery plot, in which territories were assigned to various members of a large ring, much as a legitimate firm assigns sales districts, has been uncovered. Lake County officials said today, with the arrest of three men here, twenty-five others, believed by authorities to be working on orders from a headquarters in Texas, are sought by state and federal officers.

President John H. Underwood, of Lake County, said the ring dealt in millions of dollars worth of bogus cheques of some of the nation's largest concerns, and that one of its printing presses had been seized in Indianapolis.

Coalition of Irish Parties Coming Soon

DUBLIN, Aug. 31 (AP).—An official announcement of the fusion of the National Guard, the Centre Party and the party of former President William T. Cosgrave into a united national organization, is expected during the week-end, was reported in informed political circles tonight.

An executive conference of the Cosgrave and the Centre party, will be held tomorrow, it was added. Cosgrave will return from vacation to attend the meeting.

Russian Lumber Issue Receiving Close Attention

Premier Bennett Gives No Intimation as to Nature of Action Being Taken to Curb Soviet Competition—Says Ottawa Trade Agreements Are Working Out Satisfactorily

QUEBEC, Aug. 31 (CP).—Competition of cheap Russian lumber with Canadian lumber on the United Kingdom market is receiving the serious attention of the governments of the two countries, Premier R. B. Bennett revealed today on his return from the World Economic Conference at London.

Mr. Bennett declined to confirm or deny a report that he had called upon the British Government to take action to curb Russian imports under article twenty-one of the Canada-United Kingdom Trade Treaty.

While he was glad to be back in Canada, Mr. Bennett declined to discuss matters of domestic concern until he had consulted his colleagues.

NO DEFINITE ANSWER
"As to that I can give you no definite answer," said the Premier, when asked if there would be a fall session of parliament. "I should not think, however, that the wheat agreement would make a session necessary."

"Undoubtedly the World Economic Conference will reconvene at an appropriate date in whole or in part," declared Mr. Bennett. "I can not say when that will be, but it will likely come about when United States has so adjusted its domestic problems so as to be in a position to enter into discussions of world affairs."

Slum Clearance Scheme to Cost Enormous Sum

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 31 (CP).—One of the greatest slum clearance schemes, produced in England was today adopted by the housing committee of the Corporation of Liverpool, calling for expenditure of $25,000,000.

The scheme will provide work for 1,600, involving the demolition of nearly 13,000 unsanitary houses and the erection of 16,000 new homes with accommodation for more than 40,000 persons.

In an official advisory issued late tonight, the weather bureau said today, the weather bureau said "Present indications are that shifting gales may be expected very late tonight or Friday morning over extreme Southern Florida south of latitude of Miami."

Storm warnings flew from Jacksonville to Key West during the day.

Sell Water By Bucket In England

LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP).—Following a long dry spell the whole country is crying for rain, and in several districts water divers are attempting to find supplies.

The town of Macclesfield in Cheshire has only enough water left for the next few days and efforts are being made to tap long-dug wells. Pastoral districts of Lincolnshire are suffering acutely, water being sold for a penny a bucket in some places and taken to homesteads many miles distant.

CENTRAL BANK PLAN FAVORED

Royal Commission Visits Prince Edward Island—Session Is Brief

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 31 (CP).—The Provisional Government, associated boards of trades and farmers organizations of Prince Edward Island declared today in favor of establishing a central bank for Canada.

In a submission to the Royal Commission on Banking, Hon. W. J. P. MacMillan, acting Premier of the Province, placed on record the opinion such an institution should be created.

COMPLAIN OF RATES
The presentation asserted the island farmers were not receiving the bank credit to which his assets entitled him, requested an extension in the term for loans from three to six or nine months, and complained interest rates charged were too high and not sufficiently flexible.

It was also asserted the collection charge on cheques, at a minimum of fifteen cents, was excessive. Lord Macmillan, chairman of the commission, after inquiring if this fifteen cent minimum applied in all cases and on cheques of any amount, remarked it "seems a pretty high rate."

FEW SEEK LOANS
Only a small proportion of the 10,000 farmers in Prince Edward Island find it necessary to borrow money from the banks, stated L. D. Murray, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, who presented a brief on behalf of banks doing business in the island province.

The sitting of the commission electric light room on the bed lamp, and tore through a partition.

Life Saved by Neighbor's Fire

KALISPELL, Mont., Aug. 31 (AP).—A midnight fire in a neighboring house probably saved Mrs. David Greig's life.

Awakened by the flames, Mrs. Greig arose and stepped outside of the house to investigate. A lightning bolt struck her bed, melting an electric light cord on the bed lamp, and tore through a partition.

City's Business

Premier Gives Partial Answer to Question of Dominion's Participation in American Plan—Dependence on Exports for National Existence Makes Position Vastly Different

Says Conference Was Factor In Promotion of World Peace

MONTREAL, Aug. 31 (CP).—Continuance of Canada's national life depends on maintenance of her position as a great exporting nation and therefore this country cannot experiment with "shorter hours of work and higher rates of pay."

This declaration from Premier R. B. Bennett tonight was interpreted by his hearers as a partial answer to the question as to how far Canada might go in following the national recovery plan of the United States.

U.S. TO FIX OIL PRICES

Drastic Step Contemplated to Stabilize Industry Under N.R.A. Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Price-fixing under the N.R.A. code for the great oil industry was in prospect tonight as a move toward stabilization.

The first meeting of the Secretary of the Interior with the newly created board of governors from the petroleum world brought reports the immediate objective would be to insure at least $1 a barrel of crude, with a base wholesale price of between 5c and 6c a gallon for gasoline at the refinery.

NEW CODES COMING
This effort to bring order to the oil industry was being considered by the new board of governors when Mr. H. H. Johnson, acting Secretary of the Interior, returned to the capital next week.

Johnson told President Roosevelt by telephone at Hyde Park, New York, the coal charter would be ready for his approval when Mr. Roosevelt returns to the capital next week.

PLAN FOR COAL FIELD
As unprecedented as governmental price-fixing in the oil industry, is the plan for complete unionization of the Appalachian coal fields.

Retailers had been given until next week to come together upon a master code intended to cover druggists as well as other stores, and efforts to get an agreement from all groups patently upon price stabilization, went ahead behind closed doors.

SEATTLE, Aug. 31 (AP).—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flyer, dropped down here at 7:28 p.m. tonight to complete the second lap of his tri-city air dash from Chicago to Los Angeles to Seattle and return.

He was two hours and thirty-three minutes in covering the approximately 1,000 mile air line. Within a short time, he left Boeing Field for an upturn hotel, saying he planned to take off again at 4:30 a.m. tomorrow morning, headed for Chicago, non-stop.

Death of Professor Causes Public Stir In Czechoslovakia

Fugitive From Germany Fatally Shot—Drastic Action Is Demanded by Newspapers—Slaying Attributed to Political Trouble With Nazis

While the Premier did not mention the United States, there was a note of warning in his voice as he spoke to a distinguished group of his colleagues in the Cabinet and in Parliament, and leading Montreal business men assembled at dinner under the auspices of the Montreal Board of Trade.

RUNAWAY POLLY
"Keeping up with the Joneses has been the ruin of nations as well as of individuals," declared Mr. Bennett. He went on to declare Canadian should not fancy themselves a nation of 100,000,000 or a self-sufficient unit.

Canada was the fifth exporting nation of the world. Export trade was essential, and in export trade country had to compete with the highly specialized, highly organized and highly efficient methods of production of the countries of the Orient and of Europe.

The dinner brought to a close a busy day for the Prime Minister. Immediately afterwards he left for Ottawa, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. W. D. Herridge.

CHEERING CROWDS
Early this morning he disappeared from the liner Empress of Britain at Murray Bay, motored to Quebec, where he was greeted with an impromptu reception, and came on to Montreal, where another cheering crowd assembled at the station to meet him.

WILL COMMAND MILITARY HERE

Major-General E. C. Ashton, of Toronto, Receives Appointment

Major-General Ernest C. Ashton, C.M.G., V.D., one of the best known militia officers in Eastern Canada and a man who has had thirty-six years of practically continuous service, has been appointed to District Officer Commanding Military District No. 11, with headquarters at Victoria, according to an Ottawa dispatch received here last night.

Major Ashton has been D.O.C., Military District No. 2 at Toronto since January, 1930, and is coming to the Coast to succeed Brigadier W. B. Beaman, whose appointment to this district only became effective a short time ago. It is understood Brigadier Beaman is going to Winnipeg to assume charge of No. 10 district, on the understanding he would be relieved after one month. Brigadier Beaman was headquartered at Chicago, non-stop.

CHANGE COMMANDS
The general change of commands was brought about through the retirement of Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, for many years located at Victoria. Brigadier Matthews came to Victoria on the understanding he would be relieved after one month. Brigadier Beaman was headquartered at Chicago, non-stop.

Death of Professor Causes Public Stir In Czechoslovakia

Fugitive From Germany Fatally Shot—Drastic Action Is Demanded by Newspapers—Slaying Attributed to Political Trouble With Nazis

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 31 (AP).—Public opinion in Czechoslovakia has become wrought up over the fatal shooting, at Marienbad, of Professor Theodor Lessing, fugitive from Germany, and newspapers are demanding drastic action to prevent more such killings.

Agitation was intense among thousands of German emigrants who recently have been carrying on a fight against the Hitler regime from the vantage point of Czechoslovakia. Speakers at the Zionist Congress, in session here, cited the assassination as throwing glaring light on the tragic predicament of Jews.

It was generally accepted theory here Professor Lessing's death was a political killing growing out of his previous troubles with Nazis in Germany.

VOTERS' LIST OPENS TODAY

Registrations Will Be Taken by City Clerk and Special Commissioners

The city's voters' list will be opened today for registration of householders and licensees. It was stated yesterday by M. F. Hunter, city clerk.

Last year there were 11,437 voters on the list, including 9,563 property owners; 1,584 householders, who had paid their road and poll taxes, and 330 licensees.

The list will close on October 31, when the list will be printed in time for the civic election during the first week in December.

All British subjects over the age of twenty-one years who have paid a poll and road tax, or who have paid a license to the city, are entitled to register on the voters' list. Household licensees may register by paying a road tax.

In addition to the city clerk, four other city officials have been sworn in to take the oath of voters wishing to register. These vote commissioners are John Baker, N. H. Lord, L. K. Gower, and Miss Mary Fowler.

Health Dept. Sponsors Talks On Child Health

Under the auspices of the Department of Education, Dr. R. H. Wiggins, infant and child specialist, is giving a series of seven talks to parents on vital matters pertaining to the health and welfare of children. These talks, arranged in such a manner as to be clearly understood, are broadcast each night for a week over CFCB, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Wiggins gave a similar series over the air for the department last year just as thousands of children were preparing to return to school. So popular were these instructive addresses, that the Department of Education arranged for a similar course this year.

CITY HALL HAS BUSY SESSION

Two Committee Meetings, Public Hearing and Council Scheduled Today

A busy session is in store for city aldermen today, with the regular Monday committee and council meetings abandoned on account of the Labor Day holiday.

At 10 a.m. the water committee will meet to discuss the 20-inch water-main question with Oak Bay, and possibly a new schedule of rates for Victoria. The city is taking the stand that Oak Bay should share in the cost of the 20-inch main, before its system is connected to it.

The finance committee will meet at 2 p.m. to discuss sinking fund investments and other financial matters, while at 3 o'clock the council will convene at a public hearing for two revisions to the zoning by-law.

This will be followed at 3:45 o'clock with a formal meeting of the council, when the business which normally would have been transacted on Monday will be dealt with.

Included on the council agenda is a petition from the fishermen of this city, seeking the city's influence in obtaining a lifting of the ban on halibut fishing, which went into effect on August 25.

BISHOP WILL TAKE SERVICE

Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield Will Institute New Rector at St. Paul's Church

Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield

Rt. Rev. C. D. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, will make his first official appearance in this city, after his recent prolonged illness, on Sunday, September 10, when he will institute Rev. Alan Gardiner into the charge of St. Paul's Garrison Church, Esquimalt.

The restored health of the popular churchman was shown last Sunday at Mayne Island, when he conducted the Confirmation Service at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene there, the Bishop of Eastern Oregon assisting him by giving the address to the candidates.

Bishop Schofield is at present resting at an up-island point, and is expected to return to Victoria on Tuesday.

BRITISH TRADE ENVOY ON VISIT

F. W. Field, Senior Trade Commissioner for Great Britain, Is Optimistic

F. W. Field, senior trade commissioner for Great Britain in Canada, arrived in the city yesterday from Montreal on his annual tour of the Dominion.

Mr. Field, who during his tour has visited the trade commissioners' offices in Toronto and Winnipeg, predicted a great future for Empire trade if the business men will co-operate. Although expressing every sympathy with the "Buy in Canada" slogan, he pointed out that no country, no matter how much it desired to aid home industries, could live upon itself.

"We must buy from those to whom we wish to sell," he commented. "It cannot be only a one-sided affair."

Business conditions in British Columbia showed an improvement over last year and were quite as good as in any other part of Canada, he thought.

"What is the name of that last selection your daughter played?" asked the guest.

"That wasn't a selection," replied the host. "It was forced upon us."

LENIENCY PLEA MADE TO COURT

Magistrate Defers Sentence on Dan Mar, Who Turned King's Evidence

Dan Mar, who pleaded guilty on Wednesday in the provincial police court to being concerned in the robbery with violence of two other Chinese at Hatley Park, has not yet received sentence. A plea for leniency was made for him before Magistrate Jay yesterday morning by his counsel, W. O. Morsey, K.C., who pointed out that his turning King's evidence and frankly telling all he knew about the case promised to simplify the conduct of the proceedings for the Crown.

Sergeant Richard Harvey, of the provincial police, who with Inspector Robert Owens was in court, offered no objection should the magistrate see fit to grant a measure of leniency in the case. He said there was no previous conviction against the accused and he was well spoken of by his employers. He had very frankly assisted the police in connection with the following up of the crime.

Magistrate Jay said he did not wish to come to a hasty decision and adjourned the passing of sentence until next Wednesday.

Fong Sing and Wing Hope, the other two charged with the offence, come up today for commitment to the higher court for trial.

Mr. Morsey, in making a plea for Dan Mar, remarked upon the frank way in which the accused had admitted his part in the affair. In this connection he called the attention of the court to the fact that

"TIMES HAVE NEVER BEEN BETTER"

A British Member of Parliament, Mr. William Mabane, has gone to the trouble of summarizing material and statistics contained in Blue Books and has dealt with his findings in "The Nineteenth Century and After" under the title of "The Statistical Evidence of Progress." The facts and figures he quotes convincingly prove, "that so far from the material conditions of our people having steadily worsened, as the more advanced Socialist orators allege, they have actually undergone a continuous and an accelerated improvement." In no department is this better illustrated than in public health. The death rate in Britain which stood at 21.4 per 1,000 of the population in 1871 has steadily dropped to 12 per 1,000 (1932).

Statistics show that there has been a vast improvement in infant mortality and in the lengthening of the average span of life. The expectation of life in 1871 was 49.4 years in the case of the male and 43.5 years in the case of the female. By 1921 that expectation had increased to 55.5 and 50.5 years respectively. In Britain between 1923 and 1932, the increase in population was approximately 2,000,000; the new houses completed totalled 1,701,000. Then again, statistics show that children today have better educational opportunities than were available for their parents. In 1914 children in secondary schools numbered 187,477 with 10,754 full-time teachers. In 1932 the corresponding figures were 449,717 and 21,694 respectively.

Then Mr. Mabane goes into the question of wages and hours, pre-war and post-war. These deal with 6,250,000 workers. Making due allowance for the increase in the number of workers, earnings are 15 per cent above the level of 1914 while the average working week has been decreased by six and a half hours. "It is true," says Mr. Mabane, "that unemployment is rife; yet contrary to the supposition of those who are unacquainted with official statistics, the percentage of 'occupied' to the total population has actually increased, as the following figures attest: 1901, 44 per cent; 1911, 44.9 per cent; 1921, 45.2 per cent; 1931, 46 per cent.

The workers operate now under more favorable industrial conditions than the workers of 1914. They are more liberally protected and more adequately compensated in case of accident. The relationship between employers and employees is better than it was in 1914. This fact is obvious in the reduction in strikes and lockouts. In 1913 convictions for drunkenness in Britain totalled 188,877, whereas the corresponding total for 1931 was only a quarter of that figure. Building societies have made advances for house purchase of £90,000,000 in 1931, whereas in 1913 the advances only totalled £9,000,000. There has been an enlargement of life insurance premiums which point to a population improving financially.

In short all circumstances and all statistics go to show that the majority of the people enjoy improved and improving material conditions. Mr. Mabane says: "They are better off than their fathers, and infinitely better off than their grandparents. Those who preach discontent desire to arrive at the millennium by a short cut. Statistics prove that we are on the road, traveling, to adopt one of the Prime Minister's seagull phrases, by the inevitable of gradualness. The moral is clear; 'wisely and slowly, they stumble that run fast' is as good advice for democrats as for lovers."

THE ROAD TO RUIN

The British Labor Party has launched a programme for one vast banking corporation under State ownership and control. That party at least knows what it proposes and has laid its cards on the table. It is not so nebulous in its outline of policy as the Canadian Commonwealth Federation Party of this country. Doubtless, however, the Socialist organization in Canada will seize upon the British Labor Party's banking policy and enunciate it as its own. In the meantime it is of interest to note the reaction to the socialist proposal that the five joint stock banks in Britain should be formed into a single banking corporation under public ownership in addition to political control of the Bank of England. Here are some press opinions:

Birmingham Post—We can hardly see the ordinary depositor, the saving man who provides the world's capital, feeling much confidence in institutions whose main "raison d'être" would be to foster spending for spending's sake. This new banking system would live on State credit. We can hardly see the ordinary borrower getting better treatment on better terms than he gets today.

London Daily Telegraph—It is a pretty piece of financial alchemy—so far as the facade goes. A Socialist Government will "indicate" delicate word—the general lines of banking policy and will "require" the Banking Corporation to co-operate with the socialist Bank of England and the National Investment Board in giving effect to it in conformity with the National Plan of Development. Since Creation Week there has been nothing like it.

Edinburgh Scotsman—Since the so-called intellectuals of the Party have been celebrating their ideals of the Socialist revolution, it is now tolerably clear that they mean what they say, and that their policy is no empty threat. One obstacle and one only—but it is a tolerably large one—stands between this country and a complete financial and industrial upheaval. That obstacle is the Parliamentary electorate.

London Daily Mail—Miss Bondfield, herself a Socialist with no small experience of her Party, was unkind enough to remark of its mandarins that most of them were incapable of running a tripe shop. The deadly truth of her verdict was proved in the crisis of 1931, when the Socialists, having all but wrecked the country by their shiftless extravagance, ran away and refused to co-operate in saving Britain from bankruptcy. The regeneration of the community under Socialism is to be carried out by stealing everybody's savings, through what they ingeniously describe as a "considerable measure of control over finance." The whole programme might best be described as Britain's sure road to ruin, were there the slightest likelihood of its being endorsed by a sane nation.

London Morning Post—How many depositors would remain under this dispensation? No man who had the wit to wrap his money up in a napkin and bury it in the ground would trust a farthing to an institution directed by politicians dependent on the support of the extremists of the Socialist Party. We are told that the "City of London and the financial world generally stands in need of drastic reorganization." But who would trust the reorganization to those who have neither experience nor understanding of the immense complexities of their task, and who would be always under pressure from mass ignorance and cupidities?

Liverpool Post—Labor fails to realize that our banking and financial institutions and methods are not of artificial contrivance. They have developed for generations under the moulding impact of circumstances, as our Constitution has done. Like our Constitution, moreover, they have an inherent finality in their growth. They are constantly readjusting themselves to the needs of the times. . . . People are now beginning to see they have too much of a State interference in their economic life, and that the more they can restrain the State from indulging in political incursions the better it will be for us all. In such matters as banking and finance and trade and industry the State should resolutely abstain from meddling. These vital interests are being managed by themselves.

WATER DIVINING

Is water divining attributable to a physical basis or is it a case of some psychic sense being employed? It appears it is a faculty possessed by at least 75 per cent of people, something in the nature of an additional sense that has in so many cases become dormant through the onward march of science. Major C. A. Pogson, who was water diviner to the Government of Bombay, says that before the advent of boring plant and other devices of civilization the faculty was more in demand than it is at present. It is only the occasional person, possibly one with opportunity, who develops the faculty of water divination. Major Pogson says a certain amount of concentration is necessary before the diviner gets into the habit of sensing the general situation of underground supplies.

Major Pogson is of opinion that water divining is difficult to examine from the purely scientific standpoint as there is much in it that favors of mysticism. It is hard to separate the physical and the psychical. In Britain there is an organization of water diviners known as the British Society of Dowsers. Its address is "White Gates," Lindfield, Sussex.

As proof of the complaining propensities which persist now-a-days, the editor of The Durham Chronicle recalls how Mr. Colin Campbell, a Liberal candidate in Ontario, is reported to have said in a political address: "I challenge Mr. W. D. Black to tell the residents of this riding why their money was not spent on the roads of Addington-Frontenac." To this the editor replies: "We know now how the fellow felt. 'Unhappy, lies the head that wears a crown.' No matter what his in authority do, his wrong. Are the kickers sincere, or are they just kickers? We have decided that we don't want to be Premier of Ontario. Running a newspaper is bad enough."

GANDHI AND INDIAN UNREST

There has never been a better opportunity of winning Indian support. The tide of Nationalist fervor runs with curious regularity, the flood-tide occurring about every decade. The decline from the fervor of the years 1928 to 1931 has been unusually rapid. As in 1924, the educated classes are disheartened, their leaders have been too optimistic and have differences are acute, shopkeepers have tired of hartals, and parents grown weary of their children's absorption in politics, but the most potent factor in Mr. Gandhi's rise to power is the feeling of an unreliable and egotistical politician. His position was secured by his international reputation, and he has used it to force his peculiar and often inconsistent views upon the world, which he is called upon to embrace many political and religious sects. He has disrupted the party, and he has done little to bring forward men and women who might take his place.—New Statesman and Nation (London).

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

O, sacred hunger of ambitious mind—And insatiable desire of man to rule! Whom neither dread of God, that devil ruler, Nor laws of men that common woe constrain, Nor bonds of nature that wild beasts restrain, Can keep from outrage, and from dome and throne, Where they may hope a kingdom to obtain.

—Spenser.

Not the least curious of modern movements and institutions is their tendency to grow and develop wings. One would naturally think that our C.C.F. movement were sufficiently radical in all its principles (or whatever they may be) to be content with a main body without extra appendages. Yet even in this revolutionary party there is a Left Wing and a Right Wing. The Right Wing of which we assume our contemporary, Mr. Connell, will be one of the leaders (for we cannot conceive of our friend giving the support of his eloquent tongue to violent measures), aims to achieve its objects and its destiny by peaceful means. The Left Wing, led probably by Mr. Pritchard, who did not add to his reputation as an administrator in a comparatively small way as Reeve of Burnaby, has declared that it will not attempt to attain power and seize the substance of other people by force unless necessary.

When some critic of the principles (or whatever those abstractions may be) of the C.C.F. political party—which says it is not a political party but a co-operative social organization—asked to be told where the co-operative social organization would get all the money necessary to found an imaginary Utopia and carry on all the schemes and reforms it contemplated without increasing taxation, the reply was, Oh, well, there is plenty of money in the banks.

So that, as far as the Left Wing of the C.C.F. are concerned, this new political movement is to be founded on the principles adopted and which are being enforced by the racketeers of the United States and Canada who enter financial institutions and help themselves, killing, "if necessary," any officials or bystanders who object to such arbitrary measures.

Of course the advocates of mob rule and loot claim that after they have taken all wealth by force they will undertake to redistribute it fairly and equally among the people, we suppose none of it will stick to the fingers of the leaders. We observe that in every country where force is resorted to as a political measure the leaders of such movements invariably organize armies. Lenin organized an army. So did Mussolini, and so did Hitler. Russia may be a modern Utopia—the reds of Canada claim that it is, although they are never eager to go there and put the issue to a test.

There seems to be no doubt that Italy under Mussolini is in a considerably better condition than it was when under a parliamentary form of government and in a vastly better condition than it would have been in if the dictator had not saved it from threatened anarchy. What Germany may become under Hitler is still a matter in the lap of the political gods. The German dictator's personal army has been an instrument in his hands for the perpetration of some indefensible domestic outrages against personal rights and individual freedom. But observers of the progress of events in Europe believe Hitler's ambitions are vaunting and that he may use his personal army for other purposes than maintaining law and order within the bounds of the country he has made his own. The dictator is making speeches which are as alarming to leaders of all nations which are peacefully inclined as were the words of the late Kaiser when he made bellicose addresses to his subjects and gave much trouble to his sane-minded advisers, who in the interests of the peace of the nations frequently had to revise his fiery orations before they were published.

In these unsettled times when democratic institutions are somewhat under an eclipse, personal armies may be just as dangerous as they were in the old days of autocratic rule. Readers of the telegraphic dispatches will have observed that leaders of several political factions in Ireland have organized and equipped, probably in a limited way, personal armies. De Valera's personal bodyguard has been developed into an army. General O'Duffy has organized an army, which of course his opponent has attempted to suppress with the aid of summary execution of all caught wearing the outlaw uniform. There is at least an element of danger that in process of time these rival armies will clash, for the Irish temperament is highly inflammable, and that there may be more bloodshed in the "distasteful country."

The term "by force if necessary" has an ugly sound and a sinister meaning. It implies the presence of the vice of greed and the absence of the virtue of honesty. The Left Wing of the C.C.F. will hardly succumb to this.

ceed in creating an army, but it may contemplate the organization of a mob, and a mob may be incited to the perpetration of acts of violence. The elements in the new political body, like the elements in all human nature, are curiously mixed; but we have no doubt that the evil passions of the more radical elements will be restrained to some extent by the counsels of such moderate leaders as Mr. Connell, who although a political and social visionary, is not altogether destitute of common sense.

'Slams and Salaams'

(By H. T. M.)

Thanks to Ripley, who has spent the past few years of his life in piling up a goodly fortune by educating the Public to believe anything on earth, it is possible to record the following tale about a fat little fellow and sleep soundly to-night in the fond knowledge that the Public will believe it.

And, were it not for the fact that this about-to-be-written article happens to "hold court," only under a cloud of beeriness—i.e., a certain, not far-distant beer-parlor is where he "receives"—we would be more than delighted to publish the names and addresses of not only several, but many prominent burghers of this city, who bore witness to, and took great pleasure in witnessing the sight of a small dog that actually "goes shopping!" So, believe it or not, there's a sleek, plump little terrier, in Equilmait (eight, last birthday), that bugs, and then sobles up "hot dogs," by the pound, peck, perch, pole or root—and all through his own ingenuity, y'initiate, and outstanding "executive ability."

Thus, in an atmosphere a-buzz with the weird notes that that blazard way up from froth-flecked gulleys, Fido, or whatever his christian name happens to be, pads up to a table, and then transfixes the surrounding "quaffers" with a stare that compelling eye. "There's a quaffer" (if he or she happens to be a jovial, kindly soul) plunks a nickel on the table—then the terrier pauses for a moment, his eyes bulge hazily upon Fido, and all Fido's eyes bulge hazily on the nickel.

So somebody says "O.K.," and under no circumstances, before Fido paws the nickel onto the floor, and then, and after a trouble (ever tried snicking a coin off a beer-parlor floor with your mouth? Probably not)—however, Fido eventually gets the nickel between his tusks, and then trots over (and outside) to the "hot dog stand, whereupon the proprietor of that savory institution takes the nickel, and hands Fido a veritable "mess of polage," in the shape of a raw "mole-hill" of hamburger.

Now that's pretty funny of Fido—and doubtless all very fine. But 're just a little bit worried about his future. Fido's brains have doubtless shot himself into a pedestal, high above the heads of most of his "fellow-barkers"; but, will Fido's brain still ferry him out of the "hot dog" stand? Will that little dog's untutored, but of the appalling danger, and the possibly gruesome and undignified fate that even at this moment may be lurking and smiling 'round the foot of his beery and sausage-garnished throne? For you see, Fido is in imminent peril of his future. THIS FURNACE SUPPLIES MOISTENED, CLEANED AIR

An Amazingly Simple Method... The First Development of its Kind to be Offered the Canadian Public.

McClary Warm Air Furnace System Greatest Advancement in Years—New Economies Offered to Home Owners.

Toronto, Ontario:—Scientists and doctors have repeatedly warned the world of the dangers of living in homes heated with dry, dust-laden air. Now comes the news from the foundries of one of Canada's oldest furnace manufacturers, of a new development—a McClary furnace that automatically moistens the air it heats, after it has thoroughly filtered it of its dirt and dust and bacteria.

Air Filtration
Filtered air! The air descends to the furnace from all the rooms of the house, where it is drawn through web-like filters which are treated with a substance that effectively removes every particle of dirt, dust and pollen.

Automatic Humidification
This cleansed air next passes into the furnace for heating. Located in the cone top of the furnace, the McClary Automatic Drip Humidifier performs the vitally important work of moistening the filtered air, while it is being heated.

An ingenious drip pan affords quick evaporation. The water drip is guarded, regulated and controlled by an automatic thermostat. The warm air is then conveyed throughout the home—pure, clean and as fragrant as a balmy June breeze.

Cleaner Homes Result

"What benefit," you may ask, "does one get from this air cleansing and moistening other than personal comfort?" Many, many things. For once in your life you will experience a home where furniture does not dry out and crack—where draperies and curtains stay clean and last longer—where housework is cut to a minimum because the air is clean!

Less Illness

But more than dust is removed in the filters of this amazing McClary furnace. Tests conducted by Dr. E. Vernon Hill show that the filters remove over 90% of the pollen content of the air—a boon to hay fever sufferers. In addition, these filters have a "bacteria-removal efficiency" of 90.3%. That means the air in your home is pure—free from bacteria. No more unclean dry air to bring on throat troubles and colds.

McClary Burns Any Coal

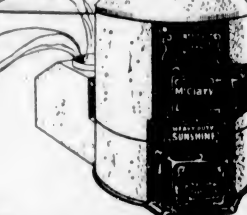

Let's turn now to the marvelous economy features of this furnace. The McClary furnace will burn any kind and any grade of coal you buy, expensive or cheap—and burn every pound of it. Ragged and as stoutly built as any furnace you've seen—equipped with the exclusive Venti-Blast Ring—this furnace will definitely economize on fuel cost.

Venti-Blast Ring

Literally feeding fire with fire, the McClary Venti-Blast Ring introduces a tried and proved principle of combustion. Super-heated air—blasted over the top of the fire-bed—igniting all combustible gases—allowing no valuable heat units to escape up the chimney—that describes the function of the Venti-Blast Ring, found only in McClary furnaces.

SEE YOUR FURNACE MAN
Installed at today's low prices, the McClary furnace means a saving of many dollars. See your furnace dealer now! McClary dealers will make a thorough survey of your heating system with recommendations and estimates. Don't fail to see this new development.

To Close Workroom if Funds Not Forthcoming

Emergency Meeting Held Last Night Decides on Launching Immediately a Drive for Financial Support of Women's Employment Effort

Unless the sum of $750 can be raised monthly by subscriptions or otherwise, the Women's Workroom, which since its inception twenty-two months ago has given much-needed employment to scores of women thrown out of positions by the stress of the times, will have to be closed almost immediately.

This critical situation was discussed at an emergency meeting of the workroom committee held last night in the I.O.E. rooms at the Union Building. Mrs. J. W. Gibson presided in the absence of Miss Fitzgibbon, and the statements of the honorary treasurer, Mrs. R. Taylor, and of Miss Wigley, and Mrs. I. B. Kent all testified to the need of urgent action. After thoroughly reviewing the matter, Miss Wigley's recommendation was adopted that a personal appeal campaign be launched immediately, and she was appointed convener of the details. Subscription lists will be opened on Tuesday in the Women's Workroom, 714 View Street, and at Gillespie, Hart & Company's office, 611 Fort Street.

PAY OUT $22,932
In the statement read by the honorary treasurer, it was shown that since the workroom opened in October, 1931, $22,932.39 had been paid as wages to the women employed therein at the rate of twenty cents an hour.

Total receipts during the intervening twenty-two months amounted to $27,824.84, made up of $7,197.25 in cash donations; $8,384.58 from tag days, lectures, gymnastics, etc.; $5,322.71 from workroom and store sales; and $6,720.30 from Victoria relief funds. Disbursements other than the $22,932.39 paid in wages, included $1,805 in salaries to supervisor and assistants during the twenty-two months; $1,848.63 for material and equipment; $400.96 for general expenses. Workroom premises had been rent free, thanks to generous friends, who had also provided sewing machines and helped in many other ways to meet the expenses.

Fitting Tribute Paid to Memory of Hon. G. B. Martin
at Last Obsequies

Fitting tribute to a worthy pioneer was paid yesterday, when High Mass for the late Hon. G. B. Martin was held in St. Andrew's Cathedral at 9 o'clock. Official recognition of his service to this Province, a legislator and former Minister of the Crown, was made. The Provincial Government was represented by Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General. A delegation from the Naval Veterans' Association, of which Mr. Martin was an honorary member, also attended. Mr. Martin was one of the very few survivors of the Crimean War and he was made an honorary member of the Naval Veterans' Association on his ninetieth birthday.

A wealth of floral tributes covered the casket in fitting memory of a citizen who had given of his best to the Province in which he had lived for so many years. Interment was in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery. Rev. Father O'Neill celebrated the requiem following the quiet service held at the funeral chapel. The pallbearers were Aldermen R. T. Williams, J. Arthur Turner, H. Cathcart, P. de N. Walker, C. M. Roberts and F. J. Behl.

VISCOUNT GREY WEAKER

CHRISTON BANK, England, Aug. 31 (AP).—The condition of Viscount Grey of Fallodon, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, was officially reported tonight as unchanged. He had a quiet day.

The Viscount, who has been critically ill several days, was reported weaker at noon.

He had made an arrangement with the winery by which he was given the use of some of the equipment for making wine, and some barrels in which to hold it. Under an arrangement, which was allowed by statute, it was made possible for the winery to purchase this wine from him, but the winery was not able to buy, owing to the limited demand. He had made about 150 gallons, and since that time he had used some and given some away.

Mr. Creed denied that he sold any wine. He had given some to his friends and, in some instances, they had insisted upon his taking a little as a present. He had been given perhaps $13 in this way, and had disposed of about sixty gallons in the unfermented state, and had given away about fifty gallons. He had offered to give the wine to Constable Ewell, he said.

Harold Tait, who prosecuted, argued there had been a violation of the act, although Mr. Whitaker contended that no habitual selling was shown as would be necessary under the charge laid.

Magistrate Jay felt the act had been violated, and imposed the minimum fine of $300 or, in default, three months' imprisonment.

HOME GAS BAND COMING SUNDAY

Calvin Winter's Group of Instrumentalists Giving Concerts at Beacon Hill

Calvin Winter

Music lovers have a treat in store with the announcement that the Home Gas Band, of approximately thirty pieces, will give concerts at Beacon Hill Park at 3:30 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. Sunday. The latter programme will be broadcast over the air.

Calvin Winter will conduct, while Frank C. Anders will act as announcer. These two names are in themselves a guarantee of a fine performance, but as an addition, two popular soloists will be heard. Ernest J. Colton, baritone, of Vancouver, and James Edmunds, tenor, of Victoria, will be included in the programme. A system of loudspeakers has been arranged, insuring every facility for hearing, no matter how large the audience.

The Home Gas Band has conducted a similar series of concerts during the Summer at English Bay, Vancouver, and this Victoria performance will mark the close of the Summer programmes.

The band will then take over, continuing to broadcast, and to give concerts throughout the Winter.

Small Boy (in chemist's shop at beginning of his first term at boarding school): "I say, are any of your gadgets good for home-sickness?"

British Columbia has another supporter in the person of Captain J. F. Vibart, retired officer of the Royal Indian Marine service, who declares the province to be the "playground of the world."

Captain Vibart, accompanied by his wife, is visiting in Victoria for a short time before leaving for New Zealand. They are at present residing at the Dominion Hotel.

Since his retirement four years ago, Captain Vibart and his wife have roamed the world, going wherever they directed, and making their home where night overtook them.

"No place in all our travels has been more hospitable than British Columbia, and everyone has been exceedingly kind. We intend to return to this delightful country," stated Captain Vibart.

Arriving here in June from the British West Indies, where they had been staying for six months, the visitors went to Vancouver, and then made a tour of Vancouver Island. A keen fisherman, Captain Vibart enjoyed fishing at many places, and at Campbell River landed a Tye salmon weighing thirty-eight and one-half pounds, to claim a bronze button and membership of the Tye Club.

SAANICH GROWER MUST PAY FINE

H. F. Creed Made Berries Into Wine and Was Convicted by Magistrate Jay for Selling

H. F. Creed, of Keating Cross-road, Saanich, was fined $300 for keeping wine for sale at his premises by Magistrate Jay, in the Saanich police court, yesterday. The evidence of the police was that on the evening of August 23, Constable E. J. Ewell, in plain clothes, had made a request to buy wine for a party. He had given the accused a marked two-dollar bill, and the latter had given him a one-gallon demijohn of blackberry wine and one dollar in change.

Later, the place was visited by Chief Rankin and others of the police force, a search made, and a quantity of wine was located in the cellar.

The accused, who was represented by Norman W. Whitaker, offered the explanation that he was not in the habit of selling liquor. He had made it in 1931, when he had a large crop of blackberries, and the Victoria Winery, which had been expected to take them, was unable to do so.

QUALICUM BEACH HIGHLY PRAISED

Los Angeles Physician Predicts It Will Be Future Playground of Island

Qualicum Beach, according to Dr. George Martyn, Los Angeles physician, is destined to become the future playground of Vancouver Island. Climate, surroundings and healthful recreational facilities all tend to make it the perfect pleasure resort, he said on his return here yesterday.

"It is one of the most wonderful stretches of sand I have ever seen outside California," he remarked, "and Campbell River, farther up the island, is a fisherman's paradise."

Dr. Martyn, who is a native of London, England, has been a resident of Los Angeles for the past thirty-five years and has seen it grow from a city of 300,000 persons to a great metropolitan centre with a population of 1,300,000.

RUSSIAN LUMBER ISSUE RECEIVING CLOSE ATTENTION

PROVING SATISFACTORY

The Imperial Conference Trade Agreements of last year were working out satisfactorily, said the Premier. Conditions had changed somewhat in the interim and some adjustments might be needed as they worked out, he said. He said that the time in the future, Canadian exports to the United Kingdom had increased in volume.

Whether or not Canadian lumber, federal or provincial, might be floated in the London market, the Prime Minister was unable to say. "I am not sure," he said, "but I am improving in the United Kingdom," said Mr. Bennett. In some districts the depression had certainly not lifted, "but general employment is increasing, business is expanding, exports are picking up and an all round better feeling is apparent."

Fox Trot and Tango Will Be Abolished

A Berlin correspondent to The Times (London) writes as follows regarding the new dances: "A meeting of German dancing instructors, held under the enlightened guidance of a recognized Nazi dancing expert, has decided that the prescription of certain popular un-German dances—to wit, the fox trot, the tango, and the one-step—can no longer be delayed. 'The decision marks another step in the campaign to eliminate the demoralizing influence of lower cultures upon German life. In a laudable attempt to fill the big gap which will be left by the suppression of these popular dances, the experts have compiled a list of dances recognized as German, which is appropriately headed by the graceful 'March Dance.' A special substitute, the 'change step,' has been found for the fox trot, and the list, which is forced to rely mainly on variations of the waltz, is brought to a breathless conclusion with the galop."

LAWYERS ENJOY ANNUAL DINNER

Atmosphere of Good Fellowship Prevails After Two Days' Deliberations

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP).—Relaxing from their arduous deliberations on the Canadian legal profession and their guests banqueted tonight. It was the eighteenth annual dinner of the Canadian Bar Association.

All in accord on the services of the profession for the public weal, wit, humor and anecdotes lifted the 500 delegates into the realm of camaraderie. For the moment, the atmosphere of the past two days dignified deliberations was thrown off.

DISTINGUISHED GATHERING
Sprinkled along the head table, the Minister of Justice, the Chief Justice of Canada, Attorney-General of Canada, chief justices of provinces, pulse judges, County Court judges and eminent pleaders before the bar rubbed elbows. And not the least in eminence at the main festive board were official representatives of the British Empire, Paris and the United Kingdom.

Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., Calgary, moved the toasts to the guests. Humor rang throughout his remarks. For members of the profession in each province he had comments in that vein.

MAKING A LIVING
"We," he said, referring to lawyers from their arduous deliberations by taking one another's affidavits under the Debtors' Adjustment Act. "He was glad to be in the capital city of Ottawa, 'into this vale of quiet where the world never booms loudly except when Parliament is in session."

Of British Columbia, he had to say: "While the Romans lived in Rome, the Turks in Greece, and the typical Englishman lives in British Columbia."

Vancouver Fair Shows Unusual Art Exhibit

James Simpson's Private Collection of Big Game, Sporting and Rocky Mountain Paintings Brought to Coast Exhibition

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31.—Considered one of the world's finest private collections of big game, sporting and Rocky Mountain paintings, the collection of James Simpson, pioneer guide and explorer of Banff, is on display at the sportsmen's show, one of the attractions of the current Canada Pacific Exhibition.

The collection has been brought to the Vancouver Exhibition for the first time by Mrs. James Simpson, who is in charge of its display here.

NUMEROUS PICTURES

Artists of wide fame on both sides of the Atlantic have contributed to this notable collection of oils, water-colors, and etchings which depict the rugged scenery of the country to which James Simpson came thirty-seven years ago to live, and show forceful glimpses of his wild life, its Indians, cowboys and pioneers.

James Simpson, loving the Rockies, is himself possessed of an intense appreciation of art, and it was through this artistic temperament that he induced many notable artists to put the beauty of his adopted land on canvas. Through the years these artists, out of friendship and appreciation, have made presents of some of their finest work to the well-known Banff explorer, who has thus built up a remarkable collection.

RUGGUS' WORK

In the collection are stirring oils by the former New Yorker, Carl Ruggus, R.A., who has spent twenty years painting the Rockies and now has a permanent home at Banff. Belmore Brown, author of books on mountain climbing, and a noted artist, and a noted artist as well, is represented by some fine pictures. He is an associate of the National Academy of Design.

There are also works by Philip Goodwin, internationally known illustrator, and notable water colors of North American birds by Archibald Thorburn, F.R.S.; paintings by Louis Agassiz Purser, N.A., F.A.S. Studies by Henry Tuttle, fellow of the Society of British and American Etchers, are of additional interest.

COWBOY ARTIST

Charlie Russell, the cowboy artist, has given two "bronco busting" studies of exceptional vigor; and two young Banff artists, Peter Whyte, mentor of the famous Skoki Ski Club, and his wife, Katherine Robb Whyte, are showing. Both are graduates of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, where Mr. Whyte, a native of Banff, thrice won the Mary Ripley scholarship. Both are winning wide recognition for their vigorous portrayal of their home country.

Wife Preservers

If you are to make a gelatin dessert in a hurry, use just enough boiling water to dissolve it, then add ice and cold water to complete the amount. The gelatin will set almost immediately.

Exhibition Will Feature Rug Making

A lost art which is being revived in Victoria is that of rug making. These rugs, which are hand-woven by local residents, will attract the attention of a great number of persons when the intricate art of weaving these valuable articles will be shown at the Provincial Exhibition, which will be held at the Willows from September 11 to 16. Orders for these hand-woven rugs, which is a new industry here, are being received from many far-away points. Rug making becomes more popular day by day, for not only is it one of the most interesting pastimes, it is also extremely profitable. This is the kind of work the clever craftsman reveals in and variety of designs and colors adds to her interest and pleasure.

RUGS MADE LOCALLY

Visitors to the exhibition this year will enjoy seeing a demonstration of the Ahmak rug; this display will feature a number of hand-woven rugs made locally. These rugs are knotted on warp and the finished article is one of Oriental luxury and permanent durability.

One of the more enterprising women's institutes has already taken up this rug weaving, as well as a goodly number of local craftsmen. This method, while new to Victoria, has been known and practiced in Europe and the East for generations. The Ahmak rug method in fundamental the same as that of the past and discriminating women who are ever looking for the best methods will welcome this display.

An attendant will explain the weaving and show some rugs in the making as well as completed ones. All interested in handicrafts should make a point of seeing this demonstration, which will be located in the women's building.

Weddings

STEWART-SMITH

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Manse, Alice Street, Courtenay, when Myrtle Edith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith, Lake Trail, Courtenay, formerly of Victoria, was united in marriage to Mr. Donald Louis Stewart, only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Stewart, of Minio, Cumberland. Rev. J. Herdman officiated. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a smart suit of green homespun, with white hat and shoes and gloves. She was attended by Miss Annie Crawford in a frock of pale grey and hat to match. They both carried bouquets of sweet peas, gladioli and gypsophila. A buffet supper was served, the tables being decorated in pink and white. In the centre of the bride's table stood a three-tier wedding cake, arranged with silver vases of sweet peas and roses. After a honeymoon on the island, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will make their home in Courtenay.

An elementary school teacher asked her class what a barbaresco border was. One of the children promptly replied: "It's a lodger who doesn't eat meat, miss. Ma has one."

A teacher who likes to interest his small boys in the news of the day sets a little general knowledge paper each week.

LUTHER LEAGUE CONVENES HERE

Annual Convention to Open With Service at Grace Church Tonight

The Pacific Northwest District Luther League convention will open at 7 o'clock this evening at the Grace English Lutheran Church. The service will begin with the singing of the Luther League hymn, "O Christians Leagued Together." The local president, Luther Jansen, will give the address of welcome, to which Mrs. R. S. Canedy, president of the district, will respond. Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan will address the convention on the subject, "What Is It to Be a Christian?" P. J. Matheson will sing "The Lord Is My Light." After the service, the delegates will be entertained in the social rooms of the church.

Business sessions will begin at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning and will continue into the afternoon. During the latter part of the afternoon the delegates will be taken on a sight-seeing trip to the gardens and the Dominion Observatory. At 7 o'clock the annual banquet will be held. The speaker will be Rev. Otto A. Bremer, of Seattle. Vocal and instrumental numbers as well as the usual songs and toasts will constitute the programme.

Roughrider Is Severely Injured

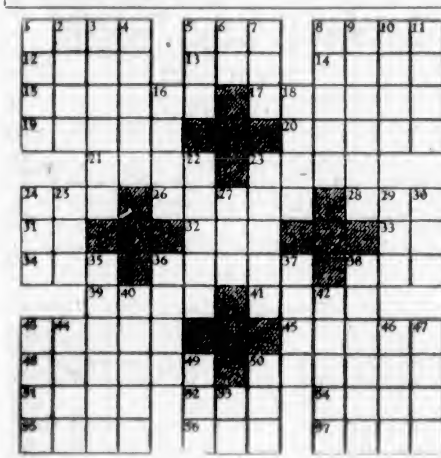

CALGARY, Aug. 31 (CP).—Harry Knight, twenty-five-year-old third-ranking bronk rider in the world, lies in a Chicago hospital in critical condition, as the result of injuries received while competing in the World's Fair rodeo.

Word received here today, said the popular Banff rider was trampled by a bronk on Monday, his pelvis bone smashed and internal injuries suffered. It will mean the end of his riding days.

BUSY GOING NOWHERE

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 31 (CP).—Five youths, the oldest seventeen, have been riding a bicycle for 1,500 hours, but haven't gone "any place." "Just for fun," they started a bicycle marathon around the block on June 27, and still are going strong.

END THOSE HEADACHES

"For two years I suffered continually from dizziness, headache, weak stomach and bad nerves. I was very run-down and discouraged. Nothing seemed to do me any good. I tried 'Fruit-a-tious' more by accident than design, and I certainly wish I'd taken them earlier. They made me feel so well and happy that I wonder now if I ever was sick."

WIFE FOR SALE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

INSTALLMENT XXX

"I thought, in those very first days," she resumed, "that of all the men who could possibly have answered my letter that I thought that of all the possible men who were really the one I had least expected, the one I was least able to deal with."

"You expected a movie hero," he said, with a touch of hurt, a hint of shrinking in his voice.

"Well, I suppose I did," the girl answered, smiling, after a moment's thought. "It's a regular movie story! But it wasn't that, so much. I read about the little boy that used to pretend he had lots of sisters and brothers and I read about the tenth birthday party."

"She had laid her hand on his knee; now his fingers covered it. Norah admitted, frowning a little, smiling a little at the same time, 'Is-to all intents and purposes—a fool.'"

"Yes," she answered decisively. "I don't mean that he isn't nice, and handsome, and rich, and—well, really very years, until you work's going well, and you come out to find me bargaining for gooseberry plants, next Spring. Wait a few more years, until we bring little Ellen and Barry and the twins and the baby up here, and let them waste."

"But I thought—" Barry began a little huskily. "I thought you and I disagreed, too, Norah, about—well, God, for one thing, and—oh, well, about woman's place in the big scheme."

"As for God," Norah answered calmly, in the pause. "I've come to see that one explanation of men's incomprehensibility about women is that they have to find God through women—through a woman. You'll see God. Wait until your work's going well, and you come out to find me bargaining for gooseberry plants, next Spring. Wait a few more years, until we bring little Ellen and Barry and the twins and the baby up here, and let them waste."

"But, Norah, Norah, you don't know me! You don't know that you even like me!"

"As I've come to know you better," the girl persisted, "I've come to like you—to understand you, better than I ever did anyone in my life!"

He stared at her, puzzled. "What are you talking about, Norah? How can you possibly know me better than you did?"

"I know you because I found all about you, from your sixth to your seventeenth year—" Norah said calmly.

"Good Lord!" Barry ejaculated, with a horrified glance.

"I thought you were dead," Norah pursued. "I thought that—as your wife—"

"Lots of them were just a few pages," he said, uncomfortably.

"Oh, yes, you'd skipped lots. But I read about the little boy that used to pretend he had lots of sisters and brothers and I read about the tenth birthday party."

"It made me cry," she confessed. And now her brown hand went out and she laid it on his. "I found out in those diaries, she went on, in half the matter about you—why you act so—so silly sometimes, and are always laughing and—getting off—smart cracks!"

"The touch of her hand had changed him; his keen eyes were soft, his voice humble as he turned to her."

"Why do I act so, Norah?"

"Because you're shy, Barry. Because those beastly cousins and uncles of yours made you self-conscious—made you miserable when you were lonely little boy. You were smarter than they, and you knew it, and you developed this armor of—whatever it is—"

"Smart cracks," he supplied.

"Well, self-defence. And Barry," Norah cleared her throat, but her voice remained husky. "Barry, you like me very much, don't you?" she asked.

He smiled; blinked wet eyelashes. "Do I?"

"Yes, you do."

"What makes—what makes you think so?"

"The dreadful—the abominable way you've been acting all day!" Norah said, and they both laughed shakily.

"I like you so much, my dear, that I couldn't make you unhappy!" Barry told her, in the simplest tone she had ever heard him use. There was a pause.

"Some day I'll come back," he said, trembling.

"You'll not go away. The others will, but you and I will stay here—just ourselves. And you'll rest, Barry, and wander about here, and we'll bring our supper up into the woods, or take them over to the lake shore. And when you can't sleep at night, Norah said, leaning in her smiling eyes, "your wife will be there—to keep you from being lonely."

"And frightened," he whispered, smiling; but his face was wet; "frightened" for Fred Sassoon—thinking—

"And some day," Norah said, "you'll do him—do Fred Sassoon, in a biography. Who else could, Barry? You knew him, you were with him until almost the end, you know what he thought and said. That'll be your tribute to him; the thing only you can do. Your name—you knew that!—was the last word he wrote."

"I know," he said.

"Could you do that, Barry?"

"I don't know."

"The sun was gone now; the fragrant May world was washed with clear shadowy light."

"It wouldn't be fair to you, Norah."

"Nothing else would be fair to me."

"It would be heaven to be here with you."

"It is heaven!"

"When I first came," she presently began again, as he was silent, "I felt—every fiber of me—that I belonged here. Later, just these last few months, you've been here, too. I've thought of you—dead, and never having had your happy times here, your picnics at the pool, or taking your mattress up to the pine-acre meadow."

"You found that, too?"

"I tell you I know you through and through. And now, today, you come back," Norah went on, "and I'm a shy little boy wanting to be loved—not knowing quite how to manage it—contrary and stupid."

He was on his knees beside her on the grass, his arms locked about her.

"Norah, I'll make you love me! I'll live to make you happy! You shall have everything you want—your mother here, everybody—I'll love them—I love to have the old rooms full. We'll have fires, and Christmas feasts, and we'll read books together. But be kind to me now; don't send me away. I could have borne it a few hours ago, but I couldn't go now! No one has ever been so heavenly kind as you have been, just this hour!"

She was stroking his hair; thick, stubborn hair.

"I'll never let you go," she assured him, in her tender, young, motherly voice. "I've been trying to tell you—it isn't what I thought it was going to be—but I've been trying to tell you—"

"What?" he whispered.

"That I love you, I suppose. It's—queer," Norah confessed simply. "It's more like a possession, or a fever, than being happy—than having a case. But it's—that."

"I worship you," he said in a shaking voice. "I worship you. My whole life changes tonight. Nothing else matters. I never dreamed anyone so lovely—so infinitely—dear, would ever be. Norah, I'll live for you—there'll be nothing else—"

"It means that everything—everything that's gone before is worth while—everything's been right—leading up to this."

There was a silence. Their eyes clung together. Norah marked the two half-circles of his heavy brows with delicate fingertips.

"Peathers!" she said, smiling a mother's smile.

"Norah, must we ever go back to them, the other?"

"They'll be gone in a day or two."

"I can't—I can't end this hour."

"I've got to. Dessert is sponge cake and jam, and I make the sponge cake! But afterward—there's a moon. Shall you and I walk up to the meadow above here, and see it rise? Or are you too tired?"

"I am winged!" he said.

"Then we'll slip away," she said. "But we must go down now."

She stood beside him a minute, and the smile Barry gave her she thought might be the same smile a lonely, little, affectionate child had given his invalid mother years ago.

"I'm happy, Barry!" the girl said. "I can't believe I'm awake."

"And it's you and I for the rest of the chapter?" he said.

"Me and my husband!" she said.

They went down the slope and past the stile, and so to Foxaway farm-house together.

The End.

The engrossing story of three girls, starting as classmates in the same public school, and the varying fortunes that cause their paths through life to intersect ten years later, is told in a fascinating manner in First National's production, "Three On a Match," featuring Joan Blondell, Warren William, Ann Dvorak and Betty Davis, which opens today at the Empire Theatre for a three days' engagement.

Three more widely differing girls than the trio portrayed in this vivid drama, would be hard to imagine. One is the class beauty, a girl of

Little Bedtime Stories

Peter Learns More About Slow Poke

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Peter Rabbit knew all about Spotty the Turtle, who lives in the Smiling Pool. Anyway he knew a great deal about him. He has always been greatly interested in Spotty. It seemed a very wonderful thing to Peter that anyone should be able to carry his house around with him and in time of danger be able to simply pull in his head and legs and tail, and so be safe. He had seen Spotty do this many times. He had seen Spotty turned over on his back, and he knew that though Spotty was so very well protected there was an opening at the front and at the rear. It was possible to make Spotty uncomfortable. Small hands and sharp claws could reach in.

Now as Peter stood looking down at Slow Poke the Box Turtle, left lying on his back, by Reddy Fox, Peter saw that there wasn't even the smallest opening. In fact, there wasn't anything at all to show that there was any alive inside the hard shell. At first Peter couldn't even tell which was the front end. Peter sat down and stared very hard at Slow Poke. He was puzzled out just how it was that Slow Poke could get even more out of sight in his house than his cousin Spotty. Slow Poke didn't make the least sign of life. He might have been just a stone or a stick so far as any movement was concerned. Peter waited and waited. His patience was nearly at an end when at last he saw the shell begin to open. Very, very slowly it opened and Slow Poke pushed his head out. When he discovered that there was no one about but Peter Rabbit he opened his shell in another place and thrust his legs out.

"Why-e-e!" cried Peter, fairly dancing with excitement. "You've got two doors to your house, haven't you?"

The eyes of Slow Poke twinkled. He couldn't smile, you know, if he wanted to. His lips are hard and horny, something like the bill of a bird.

"Of course I have," he replied. "One door wouldn't do me any good. I've got a front door and a back door and when I close them I am as safe as anyone can be. No one can get one of those doors open."

"Let me see you close them. Please, Slow Poke, let me see you close them!" cried Peter.

Good-natured Slow Poke drew his head and his legs, then slowly the front part of the lower shell closed until the edge was close against the upper part. The same thing happened with the back part of the lower shell. Slow Poke was once more wholly boxed in. Peter saw how closely those two queer doors fitted the upper shell. There wasn't a chance anywhere to get so much as a claw in with which to pull them open.

The two funny little doors opened and once more Slow Poke's head and legs appeared. "Well," said he, "what do you think of them?"

"Oh!" cried Peter. "I think there never was anything more wonderful. It must be perfectly splendid to feel so absolutely safe all the time. It is just as if Johnny Chuck could carry his hole around with him, or as if I could take with me a bramble tangle. Never in my life have I seen anything like this. I have always envied your cousin Spotty, who lives in the Smiling Pool, but I don't any more. My, my, my! It must be wonderful to always feel perfectly safe!"

As he said this Peter looked hastily in every direction to make quite sure that no danger was near.

Old and Complicated Case Before Ontario Courts

Ontario courts will probably be asked to untangle the most complicated legal case, and one of Canada's most celebrated actions will be revived with the filing by J. A. C. Cameron, of a bill of rights claiming the famous Mercer estate on behalf of Alexander Mercer, Hamilton contractor. The estate is valued at more than $10,000,000, and was escheated to the Crown when the courts held that descendants of Andrew Mercer, who came to Canada from Scotland and gathered the estate, were illegitimate, and that his brothers and sisters also could not inherit because their father, Andrew Mercer, of Edinburgh, was also not legally married. Mr. Cameron now produces a marriage certificate for the Scottish Andrew Mercer and his wife, Margaret Reid, and claims that brother and sisters of the man who came to Toronto are legitimate and, therefore, entitled to inherit. Alexander Mercer, the present claimant, is a descendant of James Mercer, brother of the man who gathered the Toronto estate. In No. 1 is J. A. C. Cameron, (2) the old Mercer homestead at what is now the southeast corner of Wellington and Bay Streets; (3) Andrew Mercer, son of the owner of the property, who was disinherited when he was unable to prove he was a legitimate son; (4) Mrs. Andrew Mercer, wife of the man shown in (3).

Former Welterweight Champion Asks Governor Rolph for Job—May Stage Comeback

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 31 (AP).—Despairing of getting a return match with Jimmie McLaughlin and thereby regaining his welterweight championship, Young Corbett III asked Governor Rolph for a job today.

McCarthy, to schedule last night between the Rosebuds and Sons of Canada was called off. The fixture will probably be played early next week.

The Great... TRUE LIFE Story and TRUE LOVE Story of ★ GRETA GARBO ★ Probably the Greatest True Story Ever Written!

"The story is deep. It is fundamental. It touches the lives of millions of married women in their homes and of other millions of men and women about to be married. It is a story that springs from the masses and therefore is common to us all."

BERNARD MACFADDEN

"Garbo's story is basic because it represents what many people call genius, which usually springs from the common people and is usually thwarted in the common people by the natural laws of life. Nobody will ever know how many sparks of genius, how many flares of talent, how many knacks of doing something better than anyone else, have had to be surrendered by men to the daily drudgery of life and by women to their childbearing and the deadly routine of their home."

FULTON OURSLER

Supervising Editor

"Not that she was a lather girl in a Swedish barber shop; not that she was a shop girl in a department store like so many millions of other girls who smile across the counter and hide their dreams, but, that from her thirteenth year, her body was definitely made for motherhood which has never been fulfilled. And there is nothing deeper nor more tragic than a body that was made for motherhood that has never been fulfilled."

WILLIAM JOURDAN RAPP, Editor

CLARENCE BROWN, the director, introduced Garbo and Gilbert on the set. Half an hour later they were in each other's arms.

"A long kiss held them, their lips crushed together, their arms about each other. Garbo's eyes were closed. The world swung dizzily and melted away beneath her. There was nothing left but the wild beating of her heart, those strong young arms that held her so close, the fresh young lips pressed upon her own.

"Slowly the long lashes quivered upward, lifted like silken curtains, the great blue eyes gazed up and saw the dark, handsome young face bending above her, the fine dark eyes that were all aflame as they looked into hers.

"Garbo saw youth and love for the first time. She saw romance for the first time, with all its glamour and sweetness. And she knew that she was lost."

Yet, today, Jack Gilbert is married to another, a sweet, fine girl, the mother of his child whom he adores, and Garbo, the silent, not meant by the gods for marriage nor for any man, stands alone upon her pinnacle—woman of genius, tragedy, mystery.

This is a great issue of True Story Magazine that has arrived on the stands today. It is great not only because it solves the Garbo mystery but because almost every one of its human documents deals deeply, with some common problem of the people at a time when our welfare is concerned; most earnestly with just such problems and experiences.

Security Prices Little Changed At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP).—Stocks closed out August with indecisive fluctuations today. Trading assumed characteristics that usually go with the market just before a holiday—declining volume and narrow, irregular changes. Oil and alcohol issues got fairly well away from the crowd in sluggish stock dealings, the former by virtue of code developments, the latter on the strength of reports distillers might be permitted to operate at full blast in view of the repeal trend. Other groups did little or nothing. Sales dwindled to 1,141,420 shares.

The even distribution of buying and selling on the Stock Exchange was indicated by the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite, which showed no change in the market yesterday. Traders viewed little or no inclination to "discount" post-Labor Day happenings.

The passing month has witnessed a let-down in industrial activity and in speculative operations, but the stock average, which stood at 79 on July 31, closed August at 81.1. Although this advance represented partly a natural recovery from the late July collapse, it appeared also to reflect hopes Autumn would see a free rise in business indices.

Loans and investments of New York City member banks expanded $41,000,000. Their security loans accounted for $37,000,000 of this net gain, other loans being up $4,000,000. The investment account also increased $2,000,000. Net demand deposits plunged $88,000,000.

The bond market shuffled through one of the duller sessions of the year today and prices generally finished about where they started. Sales totaled only $7,876,000 par value.

British Government registered 51-2's were heavily traded for cash for a loss of more than a point. This was the last day on which holders of this issue could take advantage of the United Kingdom's offer to exchange these dollar bonds for new ones of lower coupon ratings and higher face value in pounds. A small lot of the 51-2's were sold for future delivery—and, apparently, will not be eligible for conversion—at a loss of 51-8 points. Other foreign loans were irregular and quiet.

WHEAT PRICES CLOSE LOWER

Futures Dip Under Hedging Pressure in Spite of Fair Export Demand

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (CP).—Better export demand was insufficient to absorb heavy hedging sales that entered the pit during today's session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange and values eased shortly after the opening, finally closing at 1 to 7-8 cents under the previous close.

October wheat at 70 1-4 was only 1-8 cent removed from the minimum level. December finished the month at 72 1-4. May at 77 1-4 was the heaviest since the new crop harvest began and hedging sales increased relatively, driving prices lower.

This pressure was partially offset by an export business estimated at about 1,500,000 since last night's close nearly half of which was done today. The closing level was reported to a good buyer.

Trading was slow in cash grains but there appeared a better local demand for No. 1 hard. Coarse grains trading followed wheat futures and losses were marked across the board at the close.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

LET YOUR CHILD BE PHYSICALLY EXAMINED AT SCHOOL. You may have a youngster starting off to school for the first time. If you have sent other children to school, you are acquainted with some of the regulations and have learned that these regulations have all been adopted to help your child. If, however, this is the first time you have sent a youngster to school, try to remember that regulations are for the good of the majority. One of the regulations is that your child must be examined by a nurse, doctor and dentist. Instead of becoming indignant about this because you have had your child under the care of a child's specialist, be wise enough to take advantage of these examinations by those who see and examine your child from a different standpoint than that of the specialist.

While food is the most important point in the health and safety of children, and our children's specialists save thousands of lives yearly, there is the general physique or structure of the child, the way it stands or sits, its walk, the straightness of the spine, the condition of the teeth as to straightness, the presence of little cavities in the teeth, the shape of the mouth and face, the condition of the nose and throat and many other things about youngsters that school nurses, dentists and doctors have learned in their experiences with thousands of children. The very fact that you object to this complete examination which means the removal of the child's clothing so that the back and spine may be examined, will get your youngster off on the wrong foot at school. He may get the idea that he should have a little different treatment at school than given to other youngsters and may have trouble adjusting himself to the other youngsters. And, as you know, it is this adjusting of children to regulations, to the rights and privileges of other children, that keeps them from being "odd" and possible mental cases in the future.

Instead of objecting to it, make sure that your child gets this thorough examination.

Angler (to rival proudly displaying catch): "Thank goodness, you've caught him. I'm tired of throwing the little beggar back."

SUGGEST NATION ASSUME BURDENS

Hon. W. M. Denny Urges Conference on Unemployment and Insurance in Canada

Hon. W. M. Denny announced yesterday he had secured Cabinet approval of his plan to seek inter-provincial conference to consider national unemployment and health insurance, male minimum wages, hours of work in industry, employment of white crews on subsidized vessels, and some other matters. The conference, he intimated, would be sought at some intermediate point in Canada, and as early as it was found possible to secure action on the proposal.

"Hours of work throughout the Dominion are established upon a different basis by the provinces, which creates unbalanced competition within our own country," he said. "With the general unemployment condition existing as it is today, we must search for a practical solution to absorb as many of our citizens into industry as possible, and an adjustment of hours of work is necessary."

MINIMUM WAGES
"A minimum wage for males is a long-felt want in the lower-paid industries, especially when we make a comparison of what is being paid to females under the Minimum Wage Act for Women. Trade unions in other countries keep careful records of wages being paid in our Dominion, which results in the products of this country being placed on the 'unfair list'."

"The last four years has impressed upon us in no uncertain terms that national unemployment insurance on a contributory basis is necessary to meet the needs of the unemployment situation. It is hardly necessary to point out the advantages that would have been gained under the scheme of insurance, and what we are saddled with today," Mr. Denny continued.

HEALTH INSURANCE
"Compulsory state health insurance on a national basis is the most practical scheme for the benefit of the people. Voluntary schemes would be futile. Health insurance would prove a solution to a large measure of the constantly increasing and unsatisfactory condition of hospital finances. The cost of medical aid now borne under the Workmen's Compensation Act could be applied, and would eliminate the present levy for medical funds made on employees and employers by that board."

"The inability of municipalities to carry on under the present emergency relief system, and the tremendous strain upon the financial resources of the provinces, forces us to give serious consideration to this national problem, and to believe that the unemployment problem should be under the direct control of the Dominion Government," the Minister of Labor continued.

SHIP SUBSIDIES
"Sailing from the ports of British Columbia on steamships subsidized by the Government of this country, approximately 2,600 Orientals are employed as seamen, cooks, etc.," he said. "This is a serious question, as white seamen numbering 1,500 in the Province are recipients of relief. We feel that where subsidies are paid from our public treasuries at approximately $800,000 per annum, at least 50 per cent of the men on these ships should be white seamen from the Dominion of Canada," the minister concluded.

Mr. Denny said that he had secured approval of the British Columbia Government to his manifesto, and that arrangements for an early conference with other provinces on these issues would be immediately sought by himself.

Presentation Is Made to Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle

Rev. A. M. Acheson-Lyle, curate of Christ Church Cathedral, who has been appointed rector of Langford and Colwood parishes, and will take over his duties September 1, was tendered a farewell party Wednesday at the Memorial Hall, and presented with a razor by members of the A.Y.P.A.

In making the presentation, Ralph Preezy, president of the association, spoke highly of Mr. Acheson-Lyle, who has been a popular leader of the group during his three years as curate at the Cathedral.

The sixty members of the association, who gathered for the evening of games and refreshments, also singly expressed their gratitude for his interest in them and wished him success in his new position.
